

Published on The National Law Review <https://natlawreview.com>

Contractors' Duties to Investigate Before Construction Begins [PODCAST]

Article By:

Randolph E. Ruff

Jonathan M. Mraunac

This podcast addresses contractors' duties to investigate a worksite before construction begins. Randy Ruff and Jonathan Mraunac discuss the importance of reviewing design documents and studying field conditions prior to bidding on a job, what can happen when contractors fail to conduct adequate walk-throughs, the type of information owners must disclose to bidding contractors, and who bears the risk if an issue is discovered later in the process.

© 2025, Ogletree, Deakins, Nash, Smoak & Stewart, P.C., All Rights Reserved.

National Law Review, Volume IX, Number 269

Source URL: <https://natlawreview.com/article/contractors-duties-to-investigate-construction-begins-podcast>