

Published on The National Law Review <https://natlawreview.com>

Podcast: Forecast for Telehealth Fraud and Abuse Risk in 2021 – Diagnosing Health Care

Article By:

Amy F. Lerman

Melissa L. Jampol

This Diagnosing Health Care episode examines the fraud and abuse enforcement landscape in the telehealth space and considers ways telehealth providers can mitigate their enforcement risks as they move into the new year. Hear how the uptick in enforcement warrants close consideration by telehealth providers, especially those that are new to the space and have not yet built their compliance infrastructures.

The episode features Epstein Becker Green attorneys Amy Lerman, Melissa Jampol, and Bonnie Scott.

The Diagnosing Health Care podcast series examines the business opportunities and solutions that exist despite the high-stakes legal, policy, and regulatory issues that the health care industry faces.

Listen on Apple Podcasts, Google Podcasts, Overcast, Spotify, Stitcher, YouTube, and Vimeo.

©2025 Epstein Becker & Green, P.C. All rights reserved.

National Law Review, Volume XI, Number 15

Source URL: <https://natlawreview.com/article/podcast-forecast-telehealth-fraud-and-abuse-risk-2021-diagnosing-health-care>