

Governing Health Podcast: Managing the Whipsaw: Boardroom Expectations Through the Ebb and Flow of COVID-19 [PODCAST]

Article By:

Michael W. Peregrine

COVID-19 concerns continue to dominate the boardroom agenda, from patient safety and access to care to understaffing and the concerns surrounding healthcare workers and management fatigue.

Michael Peregrine welcomes back Jamie Orlikoff, president of Orlikoff & Associates, Inc., for an update on where we stand two years into the COVID-19 pandemic, including:

- Lessons that boards need to have learned two years into the pandemic.
- A realistic perspective on the transition from pandemic to endemic.
- The implications of operating a hospital or healthcare system at the forefront of COVID-19.
- Risks associated with government intervention in the healthcare standard of care crisis.
- Key issues facing board leadership at the beginning of 2022.

boardroom-expectations-through-ebb-and