

Employment Law This Week Episode 342 - Spilling Secrets: Navigating Physician Non-Compete Litigation [Video, Podcast]

Article By:

Jill K. Bigler

Daniel L. Fahey

Katherine G. Rigby

Erik W. Weibust

George Carroll Whipple, III

This week, in our special Spilling Secrets podcast series on the future of non-compete and trade secrets law, we're discussing strategies for health care employers regarding enforcing and litigating physician non-competes.

Navigating Physician Non-Compete Litigation

Health care employers face unique challenges and considerations when deciding whether to litigate non-compete agreements with physicians. However, in such a quickly evolving legal landscape, the decision to take the matter to court is not always clear.

In this episode of Spilling Secrets, Epstein Becker Green attorneys Katherine G. Rigby, Erik W. Weibust, Daniel L. Fahey, and Jill K. Bigler discuss the unique challenges involved in litigating physician non-competes.

Listen to Our Full-Length Podcast

View a Video Summary

National Law Review, Volume XIV, Number 108

Source URL: <https://natlawreview.com/article/employment-law-week-episode-342-spilling-secrets-navigating-physician-non-compete>