Cross-Border Catch-Up: Legal Updates From Around the World— Pay Equity, Hiring, and More [Podcast]

Article By:

Shirin Aboujawde

In this episode of our Cross-Border Catch-Up podcast series, Shirin Aboujawde and Eric Lee highlight recent labor and employment developments from around the globe. Shirin and Eric, both of whom are members of Ogletree Deakins' Cross-Border Practice Group, review the new mandatory leave entitlements in Italy and comment on the challenge for cross-border employers to develop compliant policies as parental leave protections expand in Singapore. They also review the trend of broader pay equity laws, such as those recently adopted in Shanghai and Brazil; a new measure in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) that requires employers to hire UAE nationals; and an Australian law that forbids employment discrimination against employees suffering from family and domestic violence.
