Now Is the Time to Schedule a Tabletop Exercise on AI

Article By:

Linn F. Freedman

We have previously suggested that conducting cybersecurity tabletop exercises are an important part of testing your incident response program and response to different scenarios.

A scenario that we strongly recommend including in your next scenario toolbox is one that focuses on the use of AI in your organization. If you have not yet developed and implemented an AI Governance Program, or if you have been facing resistance from executives to address the risk, an AI tabletop will underscore the urgency and significance of this need within your organization.

Source URL:https://natlawreview.com/article/now-time-schedule-tabletop-exercise-ai