

Published on The National Law Review <https://natlawreview.com>

---

RegTech Association Launches in Australia

Article By:

Jim Bulling

---

Launching in March 2017 the Australian RegTech Association is focused on “promoting the achievements, partnerships, collaborations, incubations and seeding of RegTech in Australia” through advocating, educating and supporting businesses in the sector. This is likely to involve facilitating engagement with industry stakeholders, advancing the use of technology and improving regulatory compliance outcomes.

13 founding members of RegTech have banded together including online compliance trainers and online marketplaces, providers of anti-money laundering and counter terrorism financing solutions and companies promoting artificial intelligence compliance monitoring.

RegTech Association Director, Matt Symons, noted that they hope to work closely with FinTech Australia to continue to develop the ecosystem, with RegTech focusing on the regulatory technology and risk management technology subset in the broader FinTech space.

For more information about RegTech Association their website can be found here.

Claire de Koeyer is co-author of this article.

Copyright 2025 K & L Gates

---

National Law Review, Volume VII, Number 103

Source URL: <https://natlawreview.com/article/regtech-association-launches-australia>