On June 20, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission Market Risk Advisory Committee will hold a meeting at the CFTC's headquarters in Washington, DC. CFTC Commissioner Sharon Bowen is the committee's sponsor.

Items on the meeting agenda include: (1) a presentation by the CFTC's Division of Clearing and Risk on how it conducts risk surveillance of central counterparties (CCPs); (2) a discussion on how to better inform the CCP regulatory framework through academic research and economic analysis; and (3) a discussion of the potential effects of Brexit on financial markets.

The meeting is open to the public. Members of the public may also listen to the meeting via conference call using a domestic toll-free telephone or international toll or toll-free number to connect to a live, listen-only audio feed.
